

Building strong communities takes vision, dedication... and knowledge.

CEDIK, in partnership with KAED, has launched a new program to assist economic development professionals and elected officials assess their potential for new economic opportunities.

In partnership with:

Community Readiness

Each community's goals and plans are different. CEDIK team will conduct a 1-day visit in your community to better understand the community's economic development goals and assets. CEDIK team will interview 2-3 key individuals to gauge the type of industry that leaders are trying to attract or more localized economic development strategies (business retention, business expansion, entrepreneurship). The team will also assess existing resources dedicated to these strategies. Specifically, CEDIK will assess or identify:

- A community's future economic development goals
- A city that the community is striving to be like (model community)
- Existing economic development strategies
- Assets dedicated to economic development (trained personnel, marketing resources, other organizations, etc)
- Attitudes toward economic development

Data Collection and Analysis

Every good plan starts with understanding the environment. Access to reliable and time-sensitive data are critical for economic development success. These data should guide all policies and decisions. CEDIK will provide a comprehensive set of indicators that can be used to attract investment and economic activity (or opportunities for improvement).

- Current community on-line presence & community "reputation" (social media, etc)
- Economic indicators and trends (industry, workforce, commuting patterns)
- Community quality of life indicators: housing, education, environment, recreation/shopping, healthcare, utilities (availability/stability/condition of system/long term sustainability)
- CEDIK will provide these data as they compare to the model community (see above)

Business Leader First Impressions Program

Envisioning the community from an outsiders perspective is a vital part to creating strong plans. CEDIK will coordinate a "secret shopper" to visit the community to assess both economic opportunities and quality of life conditions. Specifically, the visitors will assess:

- Availability and access to roads and other modes of transportation
- Availability and quality of cell phone service
- Availability and quality of communication (phone systems/internet/wireless/TV)

Business Leader First Impressions Program, continued

- Availability and access to aspects that contribute to employee quality of life:
 - Quality and availability of types of housing
 - Access to health care services
 - Access to quality education
 - Access to and condition of recreation facilities
 - Availability of recreation programs
 - Evidence of opportunities for civic life (civic groups/activities/programs)

Deliverable: Final Report

An executive summary and final report highlighting the findings from assessments above as well as a series of recommendations for elected officials, economic development professionals and other key leaders in the community. CEDIK will also provide one presentation to key stakeholders highlighting the findings from the report and facilitate a conversation on “next steps,” if desired.

Timeline

CEDIK conducts 1-day visit within 2 weeks of signed agreement.
Data collected prior to secret shopper (by week 3).
Secret shopper visits in 4th week.
Report prepared and presented by end of week 6.
